KarriereWege

DYNAMISCHE TRANSFERPARTNERSCHAFT ZWISCHEN WESER-EMS UND KÜSTE

Trainer

Since 2017, Dr. Iris Köhler has been supporting young scientists in her seminars on career planning with enthusiasm and competence. Dr. Köhler is a certified personal and business coach and trainer. Most recently, she worked full-time as coordinator of the graduate school of a non-university research institution.

Registration

Registration is now open at ihjo.de/karrierewege.

The registration deadline is 15.04.2022. Participation is free of charge.

My Competency Profile

Identify and use your individual strengths

Online-Coaching

27 April - 25 May 2022

Dr. Jasmin Overberg
Referentin Aufbau PraxisPromotion
jasmin.overberg@uol.de
Are you aware of your strengths?

Young scientists are often lacking awareness of their competencies, and find it hard to put them into words.

However, it is fundamental that they can describe their competencies in a concise way, if they want to apply successfully for positions within and outside academia.

Course participants analyze their competencies in detail and identify their strengths, practice how to explain them to potential employers and develop an action plan for further development.

The schedule is based on the core principles Experience – Perception – Motivation – Action and includes information about the job market and practical examples on how to use one’s competency profile in job applications.

Schedule

- Webinar 1: 27 April 2022, 09.30-11.30 am
- Self-study phase 1
- Webinar 2: 04 May 2022, 09.30-11.30 am
- Self-study phase 2
- Individual coachings
- Self-study phase 3
- Webinar 3: 25 May 2022, 09.30-11.30 am

Aims

After this course,

- participants have developed a comprehensive profile of their competencies, which forms the basis for effective and targeted job applications;
- can assess their competencies and present them in a concise and adequate way and
- know their strengths and are able to explain their “added value” to the employer.